Nixon Seeks New Gas Tax

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon announced Tuesday that his budget surpluses have turned into deficits for this fiscal year and next.

He called for a $1.6 billion antipollution tax on the lead additives in gasoline to erase part of the government's red ink.

The administration will not seek other revenue increases to balance the budget despite continuing inflation. Budget Director Robert P. Mayo explained that a larger tax boost "would be inappropriate when we have an increase in unemployment."

The lead additive tax would add 2.3 cents to the average cost per gallon of gasoline, officials said, and would reduce air-polluting emissions from automobile exhausts.

The announcement came just as Att. Gen. John N. Mitchell, joining other administration leaders in a campaign of trying to reassure investors and businessmen, promised a group of southern industrialists they can count on "a new steadiness of progress."

In a speech written for him at the White House, Mitchell told the Delta Council, meeting in Cleveland, Miss., that the stock market's sinking spells are "based on fears rather than facts."

Price and wage controls won't be needed to stabilize the economy, Mitchell said, adding "Forget about them."

Nixon bade farewell to his budget surpluses—which in February he called crucial in the fight on inflation—in a statement disclosing that slipping revenues and rising federal costs have produced:

—For fiscal 1970, ending on June 30, a $1.8 billion deficit instead of the planned $1.5 billion surplus. Federal outlays will reach $198.2 billion, while receipts will be down $3 billion largely because of lower corporate profits.

—For fiscal 1971, a record spending budget of $205.6 billion. This will mean a $1.3 billion deficit instead of the anticipated surplus of exactly the same size.

The revenue figures include a $1.7 billion one-time windfall to the Treasury, if Congress approves the speedup in estate and gift tax collections which Nixon asked for previously, as well as the proposed increase in postal rates and the newly proposed tax on lead additives.

The President said his administration remains "determined to curb inflation," but his statement went on:

"Frankly, my concern about unemployment and my desire to bring about price stability without economic dislocation is why the campaign to control inflation cannot be accomplished quickly."

Mayo told White House reporters that another deficit appears likely for fiscal 1972, the government year starting in mid-1971.

Nixon said the chief reasons for the fiscal 1971 deficit are a $1 billion shortfall in revenues for the year, an increase of about $2.5 billion in outlays not subject to executive control, and an increase of more than $1 billion for the government wide pay increases, after allowing for requested increases in postal rates.

Mayo emphasized that "none of the $4.8 billion increase in the outlay estimate (for fiscal 1971) is attributable to our military operations, either in Cambodia or elsewhere."

About half of the increase, or $2.3 billion is in uncontrollable programs, he said, including $1 billion more interest cost on the federal debt than had been expected; a $500 million increase in unemployment compensation benefits; a $200 million increase in medicare medicare grants; and $300 million in farm price supports.

LUG ENEMY RICE — GIs from the U.S. 25th Infantry Division in Cambodia lug a bag of enemy rice to a collection point. U.S. troops in Cambodia have seized over 3,200 tons of rice from Viet Cong and North Vietnamese caches—enough to feed a Viet Cong division for a year, but the only effective way they can dispose of the rice is to haul it to U.S. fire support bases. U.N. Rebukes Israeli Raid

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The U.N. Security Council condemned Tuesday Israel's one-day assault into southern Lebanon on May 12 and declared that such attacks could "no longer be tolerated."

On the battlefield Tuesday, Egypt charged that Israeli warplanes bombed civilian targets along the Suez Canal, killing or wounding "several civilians." The Israelis denied the claim, saying their planes hit only military targets.

Israel had told the United Nations that its armored raid into southern Lebanon a week ago was aimed only at destroying Arab guerrilla bases that had shelled Israeli frontier settlements.

The Security Council approved the stiff rebuke to Israel by a vote of 11 to 0, with the United States, Colombia, Sierra Leone and Nicaragua abstaining.

The resolution labeled the Israeli assault a "premeditated military action" and said the council would consider "adequate and effective steps...to implement its resolutions" if Israel should repeat such an attack. This was a threat of possible political and economic sanctions.

On the day of the Israeli thrust, the 15-member Security Council approved unanimously a resolution demanding that Israeli force withdraw. The troops pulled out the next day.

A battlefield communique from Cairo Tuesday said Israeli jets were ranging over military positions when they were chased away by anti-aircraft fire and dumped their bombs on a civilian area.

The announcement did not pinpoint the location hit or specify how many civilians were killed or wounded. Most civilians have been moved away from the embattled areas along the waterway, except for a few kept on to handle water and electric installation.

It was the first such charge leveled against Israel since Egypt accused it of sending its bombers over a primary school in the Nile Delta on April 8 and killing more than 30 school children. Israel has insisted that it only went after military targets on that raid.

Tuesday's raid followed on the heels of a pre-dawn strike by Egyptian troops who crossed over to the Israeli side of the canal to assault Israeli targets before dawn.

The Israeli command said the raid was foiled by Israeli counter strikes.

As usual, Israeli and Egyptian versions of the action conflicted sharply. Israel said six Egyptian bodies were left behind and another was seen floating on the canal.

Celebrate Ho's Birth Enemy Ups Action

SAIGON (AP) — Enemy troops launched their heaviest attacks in 12 days in South Vietnam Tuesday, apparently to commemorate the 80th birthday of Ho Chi Minh.

North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces, who often celebrate Communist anniversaries with stepped-up assaults, shelled more than 60 allied positions, overran a government outpost in the Mekong Delta and attacked a relief force.

Viet Cong broadcasts have been calling for stepped up attacks to celebrate the birthday of the late North Vietnamese president.

New enemy assaults were reported in other areas of Indochina in an apparent effort by the Communist command to keep open supply lines through northern Cambodia and southern Laos.

Large forces of enemy troops moved on the northeastern Cambodian provincial capital of Lomphat. The city was reported surrounded and under heavy pressure.

In a counter move, hundreds of U.S. warplanes pounded enemy positions and supply depots in Cambodia and Laos in the heaviest raids this month.

There was no news from Tham Khar, reported encircled by enemy forces 25 miles south of Phnom Penh, the Cambodian capital. But a battle raged at Doum Roka, a mile to the north.

Military spokesmen accused the enemy of 190 violations of the 24-hour allied cease-fire for Buddha's birthday which ended at noon Tuesday. The enemy had never agreed to honor it.

The enemy initiated actions, including the shelling, killed one American and wounded 25, while 10 Vietnamese were killed and 73 wounded. Enemy losses were put at 141.

The cease-fire affected only allied offensive operations inside South Vietnam. Allied units continued to search through enemy base areas in Cambodia. U.S. forces reported only scattered action.

South Vietnamese troops claimed they killed 240 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong in two clashes Monday in southeastern Cambodia with the help of U.S. air support.

Farther north, soldiers of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division uncovered a big enemy rice cache on Tuesday, estimated at 100-120 tons. The site was in the Fishhook region about three miles inside Cambodia and 95 miles north of Saigon.

The rice was being distributed to Cambodian refugees and Vietnamese families.

The find raised to nearly 2,700 tons the amount of rice captured in the 19-day Cambodian offensive—enough to feed about 10,000 enemy soldiers for one year.

The U.S. Command said the more than 14,000 weapons captured so far would arm more than 30 enemy battalions.

U.S. casualties for all Cambodian operations were reported as 155 killed and 632 wounded. South Vietnamese losses were 564 killed and 1,937 wounded.

Allied forces claim to have killed 8,181 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong. The enemy death figure was disputed by some sources who said much of the body counting was done by air observers and could be no more than an estimate.

A Communist source in Phnom Penh told Associated Press correspondent John T. Wheeler that field reports indicated the claim was exaggerated, but said the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong casualties had been serious.

The source, who has frequent contact with the North Vietnamese high command, said the allied offensive had severely upset Hanoi's timetable for victory in Indochina. The heaviest blow to the Communist command, he said, was the loss of huge stockpiles of weapons, ammunition and food.

Reds Drop Charges After Coup Inquiry

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia

(AP) — Communist East Bloc intelligence agents here closely investigated the March 18 coup that brought Gen. Lon Nol to power and concluded the United States and its Central Intelligence Agency played no part in it, a Communist source reported Tuesday.

Since the coup looked favorable to the United States and the allied cause in South Vietnam, the CIA was instantly suspect the informant said, but there was no evidence of any American collusion with Lon Nol before the coup which deposed Prince Norodom Sihanouk.

The source said although the coup opened the way for Phnom Penh's acceptance of the allied invasion of former North Vietnamese and Viet Cong sanctuaries in eastern Cambodia, in the long run Communist China's interests would be best served by the coup.

He said this was because Red Chinese propaganda, compared to the Kremlin stance, apparently had been vindicated in its claim that the United States not only would not leave South Vietnam but wanted to widen the war.

Other sources said that had Moscow and the East Bloc decided the United States was involved in the Lon Nol coup, the Kremlin particularly would have reacted far more sharply than it did to the Cambodian invasion and the coup itself.

The source claimed that advance Communist intelligence of the allied thrust into eastern Cambodia allowed North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops to get out of its path and also permitted East Bloc diplomats to inform Lon Nol one day before it started. The Cambodian government was warned it was "playing with fire" if it went along with the invasion. The initial Cambodian reaction was to say any violation of its neutrality would be protested. Later the government gave tacit approval to the offensive.

The reported security leak involving the allied invasion was not pinpointed. In the past the leaks often have been traced to the Vietnamese army, whose staff supposedly has been infiltrated by the Viet Cong.

There was no government confirmation about the invasion tipoff but the source had told at least one newsmen before it started that such an offensive would occur. He also predicted accurately the arrival here of several thousand Cambodian mercenaries recruited from Cambodians living in South Vietnam and trained by the U.S. Special Forces.

For the future, the source said, the main thrust of anti-Lon Nol forces would not be massive troop action but internal subversion and guerrilla attacks.

Although the expected continued presence of South Vietnamese troops in the country and the use of South Vietnamese Skyriders of bombing missions in support of Cambodian troops was hurting Communist-led forces militarily, such support has its positive side as well, the source said.

Cambodians are centuries-old enemies of the Vietnamese, North and South. And such mishaps as occurred Saturday when Vietnamese Skyriders accidentally bombed Cambodian troops at Kampong Cham as well as the city's university can only build such feelings, the source said.

Begin March To Atlanta

PERRY, Ga. (AP) — Rejecting a request from Gov. Lester Maddox that a protest march be canceled, a slow-moving caravan of predominantly Negro demonstrators led by a mule-drawn wagon began a 120-mile walk to Atlanta Tuesday.

The first scheduled break was an overnight stop at Fort Valley, 11 miles away, scene of Fort Valley State College, a Negro school where there have been several recent incidents involving arson.

About 250 persons began the march with Hosea Williams, an official of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, in the lead.

Before the march began, Williams told the group that Maddox had sent a telegram to request that it be called off.

Maddox told a news conference in Atlanta that he had asked SCLC leaders to cancel the march, saying, "Previous nonviolent marches and demonstrations by your group and similar groups... have spurred the hate and prejudice among some of your followers which later led to the violent death of six persons in August..."

Williams said an important part of the protest march is the "insensitivity of the Nixon-Ad-new-Lester Maddox team to the needs of the poor. They have taken away our most precious right—the right to dissent."

Another purpose of the march is to protest violence that killed six persons in Augusta, Ga., four at Kent State University in Ohio and two at Jackson, Miss. in recent weeks.

Justice Cautions Judicial Critics

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chief Justice Warren E. Burger cautioned Tuesday against a panicky overreaction to attacks on the American judicial system.

"Some say that we must 'crack down,' that we must 'smash' the challengers and restore tight discipline," Burger said in a speech to the American Law Institute.

"In periods of stress such as we're in now, there always are some voices raised urging that we suspend fundamental guarantees and take shortcuts as a matter of self-preservation and self-protection.

"But this is not our way of doing things short of a great national emergency."

The chief justice's address opened a four-day meeting of the institute. Several hundred judges, lawyers and law professors are assembled to discuss ways of simplifying and modernizing the American legal system.

Burger, a conservative jurist, said "a great number of students and, sadly, a great number of adults who ought to know better have missed the relevance of order."

But he went on to warn against a crackdown on the disorderly. He said, "In those few periods of our history when we suspended basic guarantees of the individual in times of great national emergency we often found, in retrospect, that we had overreacted."

College officials said the men were there to collect evidence.

The demonstration came hours before the scheduled arrival of Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., to show "strong evidence of national concern over the tragedy that has occurred."

Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell visited the campus Monday and renewed his promise of a thorough investigation.

The president of Jackson State, Dr. John A. Peoples, was one of 15 heads of black universities and colleges invited to meet with President Nixon Wednesday to discuss problems at their schools.

The White House said the request for the meeting was filed before the trouble at Jackson, but after the deaths of six Negroes during racial violence in Augusta, Ga.

A student-run strike information center at Brandeis University, Waltham, Mass., reported some strike activity at about 250 schools. The list included about 150 of the nation's 1,500 four-year colleges and universities, plus some junior colleges and specialized institutions of higher education.

event the workers should return a third time.

Earlier Tuesday, authorities at DeKalb arrested 33 Northern Illinois University students after they occupied the Alt. U.S. 30 bridge near the campus and blocked traffic for about three hours.

The bridge occupation occurred about 3 a.m. and climaxed what started as a night of speechmaking and peaceful marching by students through the college community. It ended with demonstrators smashing windows in buildings on the college campus and in a shopping center.

Those arrested were charged with disorderly conduct.

At Illinois State, about 30 men wearing hard hats and identified by officials as construction workers appeared on the campus. The pushed aside several campus police guarding the flag pole, raised the lowered flag to full staff and departed.

They returned an hour later after the flag had again been lowered to half staff and the guard increased to about a dozen men.

Samuel E. Braden, ISU president, pleaded with the workers to leave the flag alone and get off campus.

Instead the workers again overpowered the guards and raised the emblem to full staff.

They departed, threatening to return a third time with 500 workers if the flag was again lowered.

Late in the day, after state and county police were called in and a barricade of cars and trucks were placed around the flag pole, the construction workers had not returned.

Illinois State has an enrollment of 14,500 students, 400 of them black.

The bridge occupation at Northern Illinois followed a march protesting against the Indochina war, the shootings of students at Kent State University in Ohio and at Jackson State University in Mississippi.

At the University of Illinois campus in Champaign and Urbana police reported 11 bottles of kerosene were thrown into three buildings early Tuesday. Only two of them ignited causing minor damage to the floor of a university office building.

Summer Activity Planned

Antiwar Protests Slacken

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Antiwar activity on college and university campuses contained at a low-key pace Tuesday, as students focused their immediate attention on upcoming final exams and commencement. Many youngsters made plans for political action through the summer.

Officials at A&T State University at Greensboro, N.C., announced final exams would be held five days earlier than scheduled so students could participate in "expressions of national concerns." The student government had asked for the change.

The University of Notre Dame in South Bend, Ind., announced that for the first time the president of the senior class will be allowed to make a statement during commencement exercises, scheduled for June 7.

Lafayette College in Easton, Pa., has announced students will be allowed to make their own arrangements with teachers for completing courses.

Robert S. Chase Jr., dean of the 1,400-student college, sent a letter to parents of all the youngsters explaining the school's move.

Chase said the school would remain open, but would permit "Students to make individual arrangements with instructors for satisfying their academic obligations for the semester if, for reasons of conscience, the feel they must devote time to activities supporting their concerns."

The latest round of protests was touched off by President Nixon's sending U.S. troops into Cambodia. "Some demonstrations focused on the death of four students at Ohio's Kent State University in a confrontation with National Guardsmen and the fatal shooting of two Negro youths at Jackson State College in Mississippi."

About 200 students at the predominantly black college blocked a small group of men, apparently investigators, from the spot where the two were shot by police.

The students said the men were workmen, planning to repair damage to a women's dormitory hit by police bullets.

"We don't want to let them tear down these scars," said one student.

College officials said the men were there to collect evidence.

The demonstration came hours before the scheduled arrival of Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., to show "strong evidence of national concern over the tragedy that has occurred."

Opposition To SST Rises

Opposition to continued federal involvement in putting a U.S. supersonic transport plane on the market keeps growing. Meanwhile, supporters of the project have had little to say of late. Perhaps they feel that if they keep their heads down and hang tight, the opposition will go away.

We do not think it will, for the excellent reason that those opposed have a rising weight of evidence on their side. As the project continues, it becomes increasingly clear that the federal government is making an enormous investment with little prospect of getting much in return. The main beneficiary will be the aviation industry, which is itself not gambling much on a chancy undertaking.

The opposition gained an additional boost the other day when a longtime former chief of the Federal Aviation Administration told Congress the government should not have gotten into the SST project in the first place.

Towns Are Thriving

The growth of megalopolis has prompted forecasts of the demise of the small town. The spread of the large metropolitan areas, accompanied by attempts to develop regional control, suggest to many that the small, independent municipality is on the way out. The Urban Land Institute says: Not so.

The opposite seems to be happening. In some if not all areas, small towns are prospering. The Institute, an independent educational and research organization founded in 1936, notes that manufacturing employment is growing faster in towns than in the larger cities. It also observes that 69 per cent of manufacturing dollars for new plants and employment are spent in communities with populations under 250,000.

The eventual cost to the taxpayers will exceed three billion dollars, said Elwood R. Quesada. Others, including Chairman William Proxmire of the joint economy in government subcommittee that heard Quesada, agree that three to four billions of federal money will be spent unless the government gets out from under.

Quesada dealt with the argument that if we don't build an SST the Concorde will capture the market: "Europe has bought our airplanes for decades. I can see nothing wrong with our buying a Concorde." He reiterated a point often made: If the private aircraft market demands a supersonic it can be privately financed just as all sorts of other undertakings are financed by private investment.

That makes eminently good sense. Acting on it would free a great deal of tax money for more pressing domestic needs.

Various reasons for small town stability are cited. People like to stay "home." The labor market in small towns is frequently less competitive than that in cities. Also, large plant sites are available at reasonable cost.

Youth Seeks End To Frustrations In Politics

By DON McLEOD
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of the nation's young, turning their backs—at least for the moment—on the politics of the street, have plunged into the lobbying and electoral process in search of an end to their frustrations. Many thousands of students, their teachers and their friends have thronged Washington since U.S. troops entered Cambodia and four Kent State University students were killed by Ohio National Guardsmen. Some came to demonstrate in the streets, but a significant number were taking part in their first experience in American politics, hoping it would be the answer. "Frustration has built up to where it must have an outlet," said David Feffer, a student at the University of North Carolina. "And if political involvement can let it out, it may be the best way to solve our problems."

"It is the best hope we have," said Rep. Allard K. Lowenstein, D-N.Y., who has been campaigning to keep student dissent within the democratic system. "God willing, it will change the country."

The youngsters, hair cut short and dressed in their Sunday best, have gone calling on their congressmen, imploring, listening, taking notes and picking up the fine points of lobbying.

On the basis of what they are learning about the lawmakers, they plan to work in the upcoming congressional elections to defeat those who aren't giving the right answers.

"If this doesn't work, I don't know what will happen," a somber young man said.

"They will become disillusioned," answered a leader of the Student Mobilization Committee, which is committed to the tactics of nonviolent confrontation. "And they will look for other alternatives."

But for the moment, great numbers of young people, raising their voices for the first time, are trying for reform within the bounds of work, discussion and respect.

These new political dissenters are groping, uncertain and essentially leaderless. Their only cohesion is an expressed concern to stop the war and, if possible, preserve the democratic system.

Why a political approach rather than street tactics?

"Because that's the right one in a democracy, isn't it?" one student said. "We think democracy can still work."

"You can get people to a rally, but those who do are probably already on your side. We're concentrating on changing people's minds, and that means political work," another observed.

Ron Young, coordinator of the New Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, which organized giant demonstrations here Nov. 15 and May 9, rejects the political approach.

"Our basic sense," said Young, "is that the direction which organizers need to turn during the present crisis is toward the people rather than toward the Congress."

"I just don't think people are going to put all their faith in electoral kinds of things," said Charles Palmer, president of the National Student Association, who like Young favors the strike, draft resistance and similar methods.

However, the vast majority of the newcomers are leaning to the peaceful process.

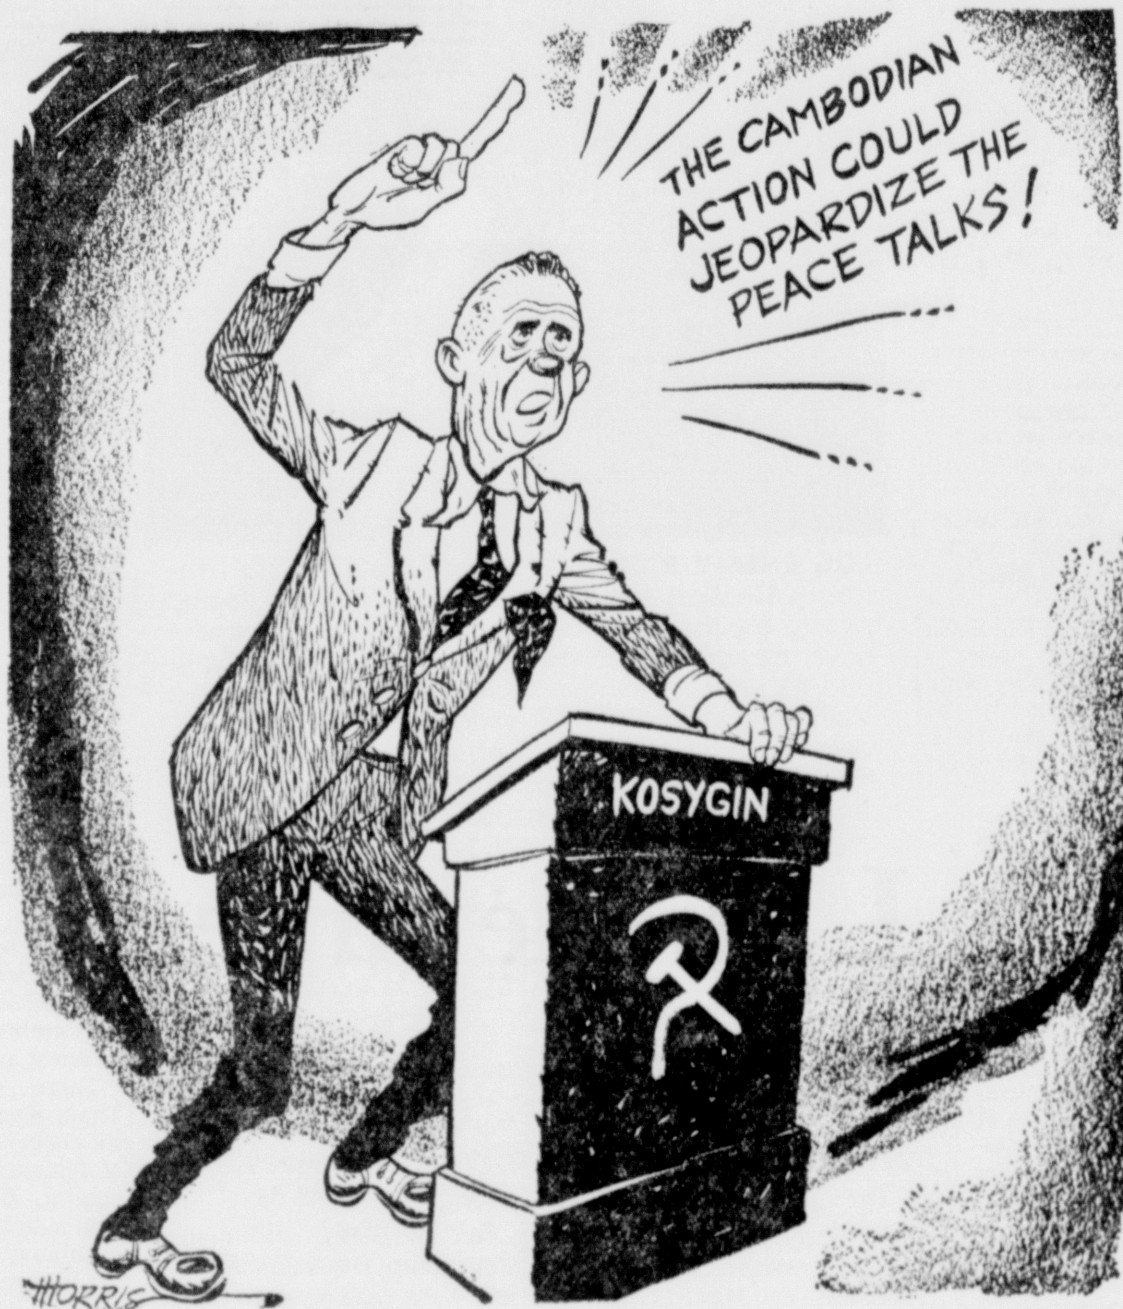

The biggest problem is going to be keeping up the momentum.

"What we're demanding is a far higher level of commitment than you usually see among students," said Jeff Rudman, organizer of a political movement at Columbia University.

"It's not fun and it's not social," Rudman said. "We haven't had a single party. We've kept kids here till maddening hours of the night. Kids standing on street corners for six hours at a stretch don't consider that fun."

"That's the only way we can effectively oppose the system," said a college junior with determination gripping his voice, "to elect our candidates."

President's Think-Time Produces Policy

Nixon—A 'Loner' On Decisions

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA)—What we have been looking at in the past few weeks—probably more clearly than ever before in his long public career—is the purest Richard Nixon.

I mean to say much more by that than simply to endorse the President's own televised assertion, backed up by the findings of diligent reporters, that he alone made the decision to send troops into Cambodia to assault Red sanctuaries.

There is nothing new at all about U.S. presidents making basically military decisions or operating as their own secretaries of state. They know, and commonly accept, that the big burden of judgment is theirs.

What is possibly unique about Richard Nixon is not his heavily stressed reliance upon his own judgment but the magnitude of his distrust in others.

One reason so much has been made of his seeming dependence upon the advice of Attorney General John Mitchell is that he is one of the few in Nixon's hierarchy who could be detected in any kind of continuing relationship with the President.

But I have it from a closely attuned Nixon-watcher that Mitchell's role in key decisions of many sorts probably has been grossly overplayed and that the attorney general almost surely was telling it straight when he told some students he had little to do with the Cambodia decision.

None of this means Nixon does not consult. Of course, he confers with military and foreign policy advisers, though probably with far fewer than some presidents have done. But the evidence is that their judgments have a much smaller place in the "final mix" than might be the case with someone other than Nixon.

Surely this whole town—and by now the nation—knows that the President keeps not only his good friend, Secretary of State William Rogers, in the dark on impending decisions, but a wide range of lesser, yet important, foreign affairs specialists.

Absolutely astounding is the word that Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird, on the eve of the announcement, was unaware the President was about to fix a 150,000 troop withdrawal figure for the next day. This is far more revealing than the evidence that Laird expressed reservations about the Cambodian undertaking. For Laird has long been presumed to be in intimate understanding with the President on the political necessity for troop withdrawals and a winding down of our role in Vietnam.

When confidences are not exchanged at the crucial moment of decision, it suggests more than some notion about a need for "secrecy." It suggests the President's unwillingness to test his judgment in the still smoldering fires of doubt among his aides.

Here his much-advertised penchant for "working isolation" has a major bearing.

It is easy to pass off his habit of sequestering himself with yellow pad and pencil as a wise means of buying "think time," and to argue that Americans could not care less how he works so long as the results are productive in the fields of policy and action.

But one perceptive Nixonite believes, and he is persuasive, that Nixon uses the "isolation" device to wall himself off from the emotional content which may infuse the judgments of people he might see in person. He wants to weigh their arguments coldly from a sheet of paper.

Is there a paradox in this? I seem to be saying he distrusts the judgments of others, yet fears to hear them because they might be persuasive.

Both things, I think, may well be true. The President unmistakably believes he has "strong points"—a grasp of foreign affairs is one, of politics another. Moreover, he wants to be perceived by the nation and the world as strong, not weak.

Suggests Hiring Ex-Wife As Housekeeper

Dear Ann Landers: You think you've heard everything? Not quite. Listen to this: I am going to marry a man who has been divorced from his wife for three years. Her problem, nymphomania. She had to drag every man to bed — from the 16-year-old kid who carried her groceries to the vice-president of the Telephone Company. No matter who came to their home to fix something she saw to it that he fixed everything.

When Gene divorced her he took custody of their two children (now 8 and 9). He agreed to pay her a modest alimony which he did not have to do, but he's a decent guy and wanted to see that she always had food and a roof.

I am a career girl and am not the type to stay home and keep house. Gene has had a succession of housekeepers, one dumber than the next at salaries you wouldn't believe.

Yesterday he asked me what I thought about hiring his ex-wife. She is a good cook and the kids really do love her. At first I thought he had lost his mind, but after he described the advantages, I came to the conclusion that it might not be a bad idea. What do you think?

Dear Ann Landers: A friend said she read in a wire service story that you gave a speech at Harvard Medical School to the Community Psychiatrists in which you attacked the Women's Liberation groups. I can't believe it. Please say it isn't so. — Boston movement and I did. This is what I said, and I was quoted accurately: "Women should be paid in accordance with their ability to produce. They should not be discriminated against because they are women. I do feel, however, that some of the screamers and picketers are on shaky ground when they try to bust into everything male and demand that they be accepted. This approach turns a lot of men off and makes them anti-female."

Dear Ann Landers: You may go down in history, not as a human relations authority but as an expert on meat loaf. Here is what happened in New Orleans:

The Crescent City Chapter of Parents Without Partners decided to have a Meat Loaf Contest. The three judges were Economist for the Louisiana Power & Light, Mr. Joseph Killian who heads the Cooking School at Delgado University of New Orleans, and Dr. Leon Sagal, Head of the Chemistry Utilization and Research Laboratories for the U.S. government.

The entries were labeled with a code letter. No judge knew whose recipe he was sampling. The decision was unanimous. All three judges selected "D" as the best meat loaf in the contest. It was YOURS, Ann Landers. — Pauline Robillard, President of Parents Without Partners, Chapter No. 312.

Dear Madame President: I swore I would not print another word about that blomin' meat loaf but your letter is irresistible. Furthermore, it has provided me with the perfect opportunity to give credit to the person who gave the recipe to me in the first place. She is my sister, Mrs. David Brodkey of Omaha, Nebraska.

Law For Today

Q. I'm a college senior and would like to go to law school. I have a record of several arrests and convictions for disorderly conduct and resisting arrest—all in connection with civil rights and peace demonstrations. Assuming that I am accepted at a law school and that I graduate and pass the bar examination, will I be admitted to the practice of law in Illinois in view of my record of convictions?

A. There are no state laws which specifically exclude a person from the practice of law because he has a prior record of arrests and convictions. All bar candidates are required to appear before the state Supreme Court's Committee on Character and Fitness which is charged with approving their "moral character and good citizenship." It would be impossible to predict this committee's view of an arrest record since (1) each candidate is treated individually, and (2) membership in the Committee on Character and Fitness changes periodically. Consequently, the applicant proceeds at his own risk. If he is dissatisfied with the results of the admission hearing, he may "petition the Supreme Court for relief."

Rubenstein, Reischauer Win Emmys

NEW YORK (AP)—Pianist Arthur Rubenstein and Edwin O. Reischauer, former U.S. ambassador to Japan, have won Emmy awards from the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences.

They were among five individuals and 10 network television news and documentary programs named winners Monday. The awards will be formally presented June 7.

Rubenstein won for individual achievement as commentator on the NBC documentary about himself. The program, produced by George A. Vicas, also won an award in the cultural documentary category.

A similar double winner was "The Japanese," a CBS News program under executive producer Perry Wolff. Reischauer won for individual achievement as commentator on the program.

"Fathers and Son" also received an Emmy in the cultural documentary class. Ernest Leiser was its executive producer on the CBS News Hour.

In the category of special events, CBS news commentator Walter Cronkite won an individual award for his reporting of Apollo 11.

In the same category awards went to NBC's "Apollo: A Journey to the Moon" (Apollo 10, 11 and 12) and NBC's coverage of the solar eclipse.

In the news documentary programming category, "Hospital," a documentary of the National Education Television Journal, was a double winner. Emmys went to the program and to its director, Frederick Wiseman.

Another Emmy went to "The Making of the President, 1968" shown over CBS.

Magazine-type programming awards went to the "Black Journal" series on NET and to NBC reporter Tom Pettit for his "Footnotes to 25 Nuclear Years" shown on "First Tuesday."

Two Emmys were awarded for segments within regularly scheduled news programs.

Nurse Says Speck Memory Still Terrifying

CHICAGO (AP)—The young woman who identified Richard Speck as the man who killed her eight roommates told a court Monday that her memory of Speck is so terrifying that she has to sleep with a light on and must always have someone with her.

Mrs. Corazon Amurao Atienza described Speck as "a monster," in testimony before Judge Nicholas J. Bua of Circuit Court.

She and the families of the eight slain girls are seeking $2 million in damages from South Chicago Community Hospital, Speck, and a tavern where Speck reportedly drank alcoholic beverages before the killings.

Mrs. Atienza, 30, a nurse from the Philippines, was the only survivor of the July 14, 1966, slaughter. Her roommates were strangled and stabbed to death as she hid under a bed.

Her husband, Alzerto Zienza, said he had convinced her to return to Chicago in the interest of the slain nurses' families.

John Kincaid, an attorney for the hospital, questioned Mrs. Atienza on the security of the townhouses where the murders occurred.

Mrs. Atienza identified two pictures on the townhouse doors but said she never saw the chains on the doors which were shown in the pictures.

When Kincaid asked why the girls didn't try to escape after Speck led them to one bedroom of the townhouse, Mrs. Atienza said they did not have enough time. She testified that it took her between 15 and 30 minutes to wriggle free of the bedsheet strips which bound her after the murderer left the house.

A lawyer representing Kay's Pilot House, the tavern named in the suit, asked Mrs. Atienza if she thought Speck was intoxicated the night of the murders. "His actions," she replied, "were coordinated, but mentally, he was a monster."

Mrs. Atienza, who now lives in Washington, D.C., broke down and cried once during the taking of her deposition.

The oldest bridge in Paris is the Pont Neuf, built in 1577. It carries the city's first sidewalks and a horseback statue of its builder, King Henry IV.

Pozzuoli, thrust upward by volcanic activity under the Bay of Naples, was a popular resort in the Roman era. Villas crowded its slopes to the water's edge and, as Horace wrote mockingly, "encountered there the freshness and salubrity of another element," when the land sank.

NEIL A. ARMSTRONG

The 39-year-old spaceman who commanded the Apollo 11 moon landing mission becomes head of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's aeronautics program in Washington on July 1.

The move takes him out of the astronaut corps, but Armstrong said Monday he planned to keep his flying skills sharp by flying helicopters, jets and sailplanes.

As head of the aeronautics program, Armstrong will oversee NASA research into all types of airports. The program is scheduled to receive $87 million in funds for fiscal year 1971.

He will succeed Charles W. Harper, who is being reassigned.

BEARDSTOWN — The Illinois and Sangamon rivers and their tributaries are pointing for a 25 year flood stage high with resultant damage to property including crops — a less important result is a blow struck against fishermen usually at their busiest and happiest at this time of the year.

Bud Murray, conservation department officer, said here Monday that fishermen have left the rivers and bays in the area due to the high water.

"They have to go to the farm ponds these days," said Murray.

Ask University Officials Be At Disorders Probe

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The Illinois House adopted a resolution Tuesday demanding that officials of state-supported universities appear at a hearing Monday to answer questions about campus unrest.

Opponents of the resolution said little could be accomplished by such a massive hearing but a majority of legislators said they want to find out why Southern Illinois University was closed and what is causing campus disturbances.

The resolution, offered by Rep. Webster Borchers, R-Deatur, was adopted 92 to 58.

It demands that presidents, chancellors, members of boards of trustees and presidents of student senates or equivalent bodies attend the hearing before the entire house.

If all attend, nearly 100 persons from the universities will be questioned.

Ambucs To Hear Cox Wednesday; Sign For Team

The program last week by Dr. Ward Dunseth was enthusiastically received. Dr. Dunseth, racing enthusiast, discussed the upcoming Indianapolis 500 and other forms of racing.

This week a representative of Phillips 66 will attend the Wednesday session with details of the Pitch, Hit and Throw competition coming up this weekend. Members of this committee are asked to be present to update their information and complete a work schedule.

First Reading: Con Con Okays Vote Proposal

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The Illinois Constitutional Convention Tuesday completed first reading of its article on suffrage and elections, including separate submission of whether 18-year-olds be permitted to vote.

The entire matter is subject to two more readings.

Before sending the article to the Committee on Style and Drafting, the Convention adopted an amendment to clarify that a person imprisoned lost the right to exercise their vote only until sentence is completed.

The convention posted action until Wednesday on a proposal to eliminate the 1870 constitutional provision that any legislation on banking must be submitted to referendum.

Delegates reported the postponement was a response to a request by the Illinois Bankers Association. The Association is holding a convention simultaneously with the Constitutional Convention, delegates said.

The delegates heard an explanation of a proposal for establishment of a judicial inquiry board. It would receive or initiate complaints concerning a judge or magistrate, conduct investigations and file complaints with the courts commission. The courts commission could discipline a judge.

The Convention Revenue Committee apparently made it's last major decision with revision of its debt limit proposal.

The latest debt limit proposal would require either a two-thirds vote by each house of the legislature or a majority vote in a popular referendum for authorization of a long term debt by the state.

Evashevski, Nagel Both Out At Iowa

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) —

The board in control of athletics at the University of Iowa said Tuesday it has accepted the resignation of athletic director Forest Evashevski and relieved head football coach Ray Nagel of his duties.

The board said both actions, which are effective June 30, were taken "reluctantly."

The actions follow months of feuding within the athletic department, and disclosure last week that an investigation was being conducted into alleged irregularities in expense accounts of some coaching staff members.

"Notwithstanding four months of concerted efforts by the board and the president of the university, it has proved impossible to provide satisfactory administration of the department of intercollegiate athletics and the football program," said Sam Fahr, board chairman, in a statement released Tuesday afternoon.

Fahr said that until a permanent athletic director is named, Francis "Buzz" Graham, business manager of athletics, will serve as acting director.

Fahr said Evashevski had submitted his resignation as athletic director several months ago.

Evashevski, who lifted the Iowa Hawkeyes to national football prominence in the 1950s, said he had requested activation of his resignation because "I can no longer subject my family to embarrassment and obscene phone calls" which he said had become common during recent months.

Nagel was out of town when the announcement was made and could not be reached immediately for comment.

Evashevski told the board: "When I told you I wanted to resign in the summer of 1969, I agreed to serve on until December of 1970.

"I wish to activate my resignation to an earlier date and request that it take effect as of June 30, 1970.

Evashevski came to Iowa in 1952 and developed into one of the university's winningest football coaches. His 1957 and 1959 teams were Rose Bowl champions.

He had an over-all coaching record of 67 wins, 35 losses, and six ties, and posted a 52-27-4 record in 12 years as head coach of Iowa before becoming athletic director in 1960.

Evashevski, 52, is a native of Detroit and played quarterback at the University of Michigan. He was head football coach at Hamilton College, Clinton, N.Y., before entering the Navy during World War II.

At Iowa, Evashevski's teams won or shared three Big Ten titles and between 1956 and 1960 were voted among the top six teams in the country each year.

Nagel came to Iowa in 1965 at a time when the Hawkeyes had won only one of their last 13 football games. In his four seasons at Iowa Nagel compiled a record of 13 wins, 26 losses and one tie.

His only other head coaching job was at the University of Utah where he headed the football staff for eight years and compiled a 42-39-1 record.

Judge Quashes Agnew Subpoena

CHICAGO (AP) — A federal judge quashed Tuesday a subpoena for Vice President Spiro T. Agnew in the trial of 11 persons charged with destroying Selective Service records.

A defense attorney had sought Agnew's appearance in U.S. District Court so the vice president could explain the basis for his remark that some dissidents are "criminally insane." Agnew made the statement Sunday in a radio interview.

Frank W. Oliver, a defense lawyer, contends his four clients are "insane because they have the delusion that our cherished institutions are being perverted."

Judge Edwin A. Robson ruled that Agnew is not a qualified source to comment on the sanity of the defendants.

The judge also vacated an order revoking the bond of Edward Hoffmans, 32, of Iowa City, Iowa, a defendant, after Hoffmans promised to rise when the judge and jury entered the courtroom.

Judge Robson warned he would revoke Hoffmans' $2,500 bond again if the defendant failed to rise in the future.

The judge denied defense motions for a directed verdict of acquittal after the government rested its case.

Four persons, two of them Roman Catholic priests, testified as character witnesses for the defense.

The 11 defendants are among 15 arrested for a raid on a Selective Service office May 25, 1969.

source said. However, North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops are hated and their presence in the country helped build support for the coup that ousted Sihanouk March 18.

The source, who is in frequent contact with the North Vietnamese high command, said the allied drive into Cambodia upset Hanoi's timetable for Indochina, possibly for years.

The heaviest blow was the large amounts of weapons and foods captured by U.S. and there was a major disruption of Communist communications in the former border sanctuaries.

Because of the advance warning, the Communist command operating the Central Office for South Vietnam—COSVN—was able to flee well in advance of the allied incursion and set up a temporary command center elsewhere, the informant continued.

The North Vietnamese command was said to be hopeful the South Vietnamese forces would stay in Cambodia for some time, spreading themselves thin and laying themselves open for attacks elsewhere.

More Debate On Church-Cooper Amendment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield voiced hope Tuesday for some accommodation that would uphold the rights of both President Nixon and the Senate in controlling future actions in Cambodia.

But the Montana Democrat made clear that any language would have to be as strong as the pending Cooper-Church amendment to bar funds for retaining U.S. forces in Cambodia after the present operation ends.

He indicated that the accommodation he is talking about would involve acceptance by the Nixon administration of the interpretations of the Cooper-Church amendment by its sponsors—that it does not, in fact, restrict any of the President's constitutional powers.

Administration supporters have insisted that the amendment would restrict the President's powers. Proponents contend that while it would require congressional approval of future actions such as the Cambodian attack it does not interfere with any power granted the President by the Constitution.

Nixon, meanwhile, made clear to Republican congressional leaders at the White House that he remains opposed to any restrictions.

Republican leaders resumed efforts to find language that would enable them to make the Cooper-Church amendment acceptable to the White House.

Sen. Gordon Allot of Colorado, chairman of the Republican Policy Committee, told reporters there are some 20 to 25 "of us who want to discuss this pretty thoroughly." But he denied administration forces are filibustering to prevent a vote.

An Associated Press poll indicates 47 of the 100 senators support the amendment, and five others are leaning in favor, with 34 against and 14 undecided.

On the floor, debate continued with Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., consuming two hours with a speech in favor of the Cooper-Church proposal and against U.S. support of the Thieu government in Saigon.

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, had prepared a 31-page speech calling on the so-called silent majority to declare support for Nixon's policies. But he decided to delay delivery until Wednesday.

Mansfield told reporters that if Cooper-Church foes want to delay voting until June 30, the date Nixon has pledged all U.S. forces will be out of Cambodia, "that's fine."

"Of course," he added, "it will hold up legislation in which the administration is interested, appropriations and the like."

He appealed later to the Senate to avoid partisanship, noting that so far the debate has been nonpolitical and "that is the way it should be."

"We Democrats have plenty to answer for and we can't avoid part of the blame," he said.

He added he hopes there can be "some sort of an accommodation and agreement which will uphold the right of the President, which will uphold the power of the Congress."

Allott said later Mansfield has made "some conciliatory statements" and that accommodations is possible. "But I do not know what it would be," he said.

Appoint Group To Investigate Aid To Schools

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — A three-member subcommittee was appointed Tuesday by Senate Republicans to seek a compromise on proposals for state aid to non-public schools.

The subcommittee will seek to moderate a variety of non-public schools aid proposals to overcome Senate resistance, particularly from the Senate Education Committee headed by Sen. John Gilbert, R-Carbondale.

Members of the committee are Sens. William Horsley, Springfield; Robert Coulson, Waukegan, and Arthur Bidwell, River Forest. All were appointed in a caucus of Republican senators before Tuesday's session.

The Senate in general and the Senate Education Committee in particular has resisted non-public school aid, now called "parochial" around the statehouse.

The Senate defeated private school aid legislation in the 1969 session.

In its first vote on the non-public school aid question this session, Gilbert's committee last week defeated an aid bill sponsored by Sen. Robert Cherry, D-Chicago.

A House-passed bill, sponsored by Rep. Edward Copeland, R-Chicago, has the endorsement of Gov. Richard Ogilvie and follows the governor's budget program.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Bone Marrow Takes Over Removed Spleen's Task

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.

Q—My spleen was removed four years ago. Will not having a spleen affect my general health? What purpose does the spleen serve?

A—The spleen has been called a useful organ we can live without. Knowledge about its function is still incomplete, but we have learned that before you are born it is busy producing both red and white blood cells. After you are born, the bone marrow takes over their production. The spleen is the chief protector against infection during the first two years of life.

Its permanent task is to check all your red blood cells and platelets for size, shape and content and destroy the ones that are worn out or defective. The iron in the red cells is routed to the marrow for use in new blood cells.

Bacteria, poisons and other foreign matter are also filtered out of your blood by the spleen. This organ also acts as a reservoir for red blood cells and plasma to be poured into your blood stream when replacements are needed. It is this function that makes it possible for you to donate a pint of blood and never miss it although it may take six to eight weeks to build up the reserve again.

The chief reason for removal of the spleen is injury to the organ. When it is removed for this reason, one's health is not affected because other organs—principally the liver—take over the functions. In persons with some diseases of the blood, on the other hand, removal of the spleen may be a life-saving procedure.

Q—I have an enlarged spleen. If I lift something heavy, is there any danger my spleen will burst? Should it be removed?

A—The spleen may become enlarged as a result of such infections as malaria, influenza, tuberculosis, diphtheria, scarlet fever and smallpox or in such other diseases as leukemia, pernicious anemia, cirrhosis of the liver and sarcoidosis. The danger of its rupturing depends on how fast the underlying disease progresses rather than on whether you lift heavy objects. Whether your spleen should be removed would depend on the cause and the opinion of your doctor.

Q—If an epileptic uses pot, barbiturates or LSD, will it harm him more than it would a normal person?

A—Not so far as I know, but why court a known avoidable danger at all?

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Wire Coat Hangers Make Handy Gadgets

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—Sherrie could use those surplus wire coat hangers to make a fence around her flowers. This will prevent people from stepping on them and will keep the rabbits from eating the buds and flowers.—C.B.

DEAR POLLY—Sherrie could fasten two wire coat hangers together by making a single buttonhole or outline stitch all around the edges with two colors of yarn. These make the most luxurious hangers for sleeveless dresses (pins never slide on the hangers) and skirts and sweaters do not show bumps because of the thickness of two hangers together. In sets of four or six, these are great gifts for the person who has everything or for the bride who is probably short on hangers.—MRS. L.H.

DEAR POLLY—Sherrie could make an artificial flower cage with some of her extra wire coat hangers. I used 16 to make mine. Lay them on top of each other, with the hooks all facing the same way. Wire the curving ends together, then fan them into a circle with the hooks on the outside. Fasten the bottom centers together (that will be the inside center of the cage). I use an easy-to-bend soft wire. Fill the cage with artificial flowers which protrude out. Hang by a heavy ribbon or cord.—LILLY

DEAR POLLY and Sherrie—I raise a lot of flowers and some of them need staking. I straighten out the curved ends of a coat hanger, put it in the ground and bend the rest of it to hold the flowers. The branches of bushy plants can be entwined in and out. I also put them in my planter boxes and use those twisties that come on bread bags to tie the stems to the wire.—DOROTHY

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I cannot keep the mattress in place on my bed. It slides to one side. Every morning when I make the bed, the mattress has to be moved over. Can someone help me?—KATHY

Here is another hand that shows experts at their worst. South is in a very good spade slam since all he needs to bring it home is to take care of either the queen of trumps or king of diamonds. Roughly, his chance of success is 75 per cent. Any time your chance of making slam is better than 50 per cent, you belong in the slam.

Expert South will play correctly and go down. He will enter dummy with a club at trick two in order to take a first-round spade finesse. West will make his singleton queen and later on East will collect the setting trick with the king of diamonds.

Why is South's play correct, although a losing one? Aren't you supposed to postpone a finesse for the queen until the second round?

Yes and no. You are supposed to postpone a queen finesse until the second round if you will also be able to finesse on the third round in case the finessable queen is backed up by three small cards in the suit. Thus, if dummy held South's five of spades, South would be correct in cashing a high spade and then entering dummy to finesse the nine spot.

Expert South lost to the singleton queen this time. If he had cashed a high spade first, he would have dropped her grace. On the other hand suppose that West held the singleton eight, four, three or

Ormiston Signs With Minnesota

By BUFORD GREEN
Sports Editor

Jacksonville High school basketball standout Chad Ormiston has agreed to accept a full basketball scholarship with the University of Minnesota next year.

Ormiston and Minnesota coach George Hanson made the announcement during a press conference at the 6-4 cager's home Tuesday evening. Ormiston signed a Big Ten letter of intent, which carries the scholarship agreement with it, last Thursday and Tuesday inked an Intercollegiate letter of intent.

FOLO — ORMISTON SIGNS

In answer to a question asking why he picked Minnesota, Ormiston replied, "The coach was the most sincere, and the people I met there were very sincere and honest. I think Minnesota is a great school and they have an excellent law school. I picked Minnesota for its academic standards as well as its athletic standards."

Ormiston, who made most all-state teams as honorable or special mention after a fine senior season, visited only three other schools although receiving correspondence from many others.

Hanson, who only recently became head coach after five years as an assistant coach with the Gophers, commented, "I saw Chad first play at the Centralia Holiday Tournament and was very impressed. Chad is the type boy we want and we are very honored to have him join us. He is the type young man we like to have represent our school both on and off the basketball court. We feel we have a lot to offer Chad, but he has more to offer us. We will do our best to provide an interesting career for Chad. His background shows us he is a hard-worker."

Hanson, who played basketball at Minnesota before graduating in 1957, says the basketball future at the school looks excellent. "We feel Chad is getting in on the foundation of an outstanding basketball program."

"Of our six basketball scholarships we have, we have had letters of intent from 6-2 Keith Young of Columbus, Ohio Mohawk High school, 6-8 Stan Krebs, who averaged about 30 points per game, and 6-5 Tom Alsop from Minnesota. We have another boy in the process of signing and have signed a junior college All-American."

"We lost only three players from last year's team, and have 6-8 Jim Brewer (who led Proviso East to Illinois state title in 1969) and 6-11 Scott Magnuson on this year's freshmen team."

"We actually have sufficient size up front, and are looking for what I call a swing man. That is someone who can play either forward or guard. We try to let a player play the position he's best at. Chad would seem to be a natural swing man."

Hanson calls his basketball theory, fast breaking with a continuity offense and an aggressive, pressing defense.

Ormiston, who this week was named all-state, all-regional and honorable mention All-American by the All-American Report out of Brooklyn, will receive the full room, board, tuition, books and fees from his scholarship for four years. The Big Ten does now permit the $15 per month spending money allowed by the NCAA.

The Minnesota freshmen team, which will play a 12-game schedule next year, is slated to appear at the University of Illinois early in February.

Tony C's Hit Lifts Red Sox Over Tigers 5-4

BOSTON (AP) — Tony Conigliaro's ninth-inning bases-loaded single off the left field wall lifted the Boston Red Sox to a 5-4 victory over Detroit Tuesday night, sending the Tigers to their sixth straight loss.

Conigliaro's winning blow off reliever Fred Lasher followed a leadoff walk to pinch hitter Tom Satriano, who was replaced as a runner by Luis Alvarado.

Dick Schofield then bunted, and when Lasher's throw was dropped at second by Cesar Gutierrez, both runners were safe. After Reggie Smith forced Alvarado, attempting to sacrifice, Carl Yastrzemski walked, loading the bases, setting up the winning hit.

Flood's case challenging baseball's reserve system which began before Judge Irving Ben Cooper, a battery of attorneys and several members of the baseball establishment.

Flood, nattily dressed in a blue, double breasted suit, appeared tense as he hunched forward on the witness stand and was led through his testimony by attorney Arthur Goldberg, former Supreme Court Justice now a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor of New York State.

The one-time $90,000-a-year outfielder had to be handed a baseball bubble gum card to recall his batting averages in specific years and several times had to be admonished by the judge for not answering questions properly.

Flood, in challenging baseball's reserve system, is attempting to prove that the sport is a monopoly operating in restraint of trade.

At issue is what is popularly known as the reserve clause — actually a set of rules that binds the player to the team that signs him until he is traded, sold or released with or without his knowledge and/or approval.

In his testimony, Flood said he was not consulted before being traded to Philadelphia following the 1969 season and did not want to play for the Phillies because, "I didn't want to move my businesses and family into another part of the United States."

He revealed he had met with Philadelphia general manager John Quinn to discuss the situation and that Quinn had offered him "a little more than $90,000 in salary" to play with the Phillies, plus $8,000 in spring training expenses — a package in the

Cards Get Frank Linzy For Johnson

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals announced Tuesday a straight player trade sending Jerry Johnson, 27, to the San Francisco Giants in exchange for righthander Frank Linzy, 30. Both are right-handed relief pitchers.

Linzy, in his sixth season with the Giants and owner of a 48-39 career record, will join the club Wednesday in Houston, the Cardinals said.

Johnson, as both a starter and reliever, posted a 6-13 record last season for the Philadelphia Phillies and a 4.29 ERA.

Orr, Wildrick High On Charts

Illinois College's Rich Orr and Kent Wildrick rate high in Prairie College Conference statistics released this week. The figures do not include season-ending games of last week-end.

Orr, a freshman from Perry, was fifth in batting average at .387, first in runs batted in with 24, first in home runs with eight, third in doubles with five and third in triples with one.

Wildrick, a sophomore hurler from Carthage, was third in wins with five, fourth in strikeouts with 23 and third in shutouts with one.

IC's Glen Phillips was fifth in stolen bases with three.

Pittsfield Scores 3-0 Regional Edge

Callender Halts Routt On 3 Hits

Bruce Callender tossed a nifty three-hit shutout and Gary Cox drove in two runs as Pittsfield stopped Routt 3-0 in the first game of the Jacksonville High Regional Tournament Tuesday afternoon.

Action continues today with Virginia taking on Southwestern at 4:15. The winner tangles with Pittsfield, now 14-5, for the championship Thursday and the right to advance to next week's Springfield Griffin Sectional.

Callender was in command all the way, as the junior righthander fanned nine and issued three walks in picking up his first victory against four losses on the year.

After being blanked on one hit for the first three innings by Routt ace Ken Cors, Pittsfield erupted for two unearned runs in the fourth frame.

Tom McCartney reached second on an infield boot and moved to third on Steve Jenkins' single. Jenkins moved to second on another Routt miscue and both scored on Cox's single.

The Saukees added an insurance tally in the sixth against Jim McNeely. McCartney again reached on an error, stole second and moved in on Jenkins' second safety.

Routt's biggest threat came in the fourth inning. Tom Lockman drew a walk and moved on to second on Cors' sacrifice. Steve Kaufmann singled and Ed Tighe walked but Callender got Ed Johnson on a tap back to the mound and whiffed Mike Tennill.

Dave Eoff blooped a one-out double to left center in the fourth but Callender again worked out of the jam. Rockets had only one baserunner after that as Lockman walked with two out in the seventh.

Routt finished with a 9-6 reading. Routt

Cincinnati Tips Chicago By 3-1

CINCINNATI (AP) — Bernie Carbo's two-run triple in the seventh inning and the five-hit pitching of Gary Nolan and two relievers carried the Cincinnati Reds to a 3-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs Tuesday night.

Rookie Joe Decker blanked the Reds on two hits and led 1-0 until the seventh, when Johnny Bench beat out a bunt, Lee May walked and Carbo tripled to right. Carbo scored on a bloop single by Tommy Helms.

With one on and two out in the eighth, Pete Rose protected the Reds' lead when he leaped against the right field screen to snare Jim Hickman's bid for an extra-base hit.

Stroud's Homer Lifts Senators Over Tribe, 3-1

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ed Stroud lofted a three-run homer as Washington clipped Cleveland 3-1 Tuesday night despite being held to just three hits.

The Senators' Joe Coleman, 2-3, held the Indians hitless over the last five innings after Vada Pinson tagged a bases-empty homer in the third. The righthander scattered five hits.

Stroud's high, arching blow barely cleared the fence just inside the foul pole at the 335-foot mark after a double by Rick Reichardt and a walk to Wayne Comer in the fourth inning. Both hits were off loser Barry Moore, 3-3.

Young Drivers Receive Praise

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The A. J. Foyts, Al Unser and Mario Andretti aren't likely to leave the racing scene soon, but already several youngsters are waiting in the wings to replace them.

Herb Porter, an observer of motorsports for 35 years as a driver, team manager and development expert, watched

Mike Moaley zip down the front straight at Indianapolis Motor Speedway Monday and said:

"There goes one of the natural driving talents that has come into championship racing in the last two years. He'll be heard from in the future and he'll become a wealthy man if he handles himself right."

Unser, 31 and youngest of two driving brothers from Albuquerque, won the pole position Saturday with a four-lap average of 170.221 m.p.h. Mosley, at 23 one of the youngest drivers in the field, qualified his turbo-charged Offy at 166.651.

Porter is known in auto racing circles as the father of the present-day turbocharged Offy engine. He began experimenting with the little four-cylinder powerplant in 1964, when car owners were looking for cheap engines that would match the hot overhead cam Fords.

His first test driver in the highly successful program was A. J. Foyt, but before that such names as Roger Ward, Len Sutton, Roger McCluskey, Paul Goldsmith, Paul Russo and Lloyd Ruby had driven on his teams.

Porter currently is chief of engine development for Good-year, which uses the Offy in its tire testing programs. That makes him available for consultation with crews of any of the 31 Offy-powered cars in this year's entry list.

Among other young drivers Porter singled out as future stars were Tony Adamowicz, 29, the Formula A champion last year who qualified an Eagle-Offy at 164.820; Lee Kunzman, 25, of Guttenberg, Iowa, and Sam Posey, a 26-year-old former sports car driver from Sharon, Conn. Kunzman and Posey will try to get into the field this weekend.

Meantime, 44-year-old Jack Brabham was expected to get his new car into action at the speedway today. Brabham, a three-time world champion in Grand Prix racing, said the car was held up by New York for seven days because of a trucking strike.

The car, a turbo-charged Offy of Brabham's own design, was uncrated Sunday night but the crew couldn't get it ready for practice Monday.

Chisox Great Ray Schalk Dies At 78

CHICAGO (AP) — Ray Schalk, 78, former catcher for the Chicago White Sox and a baseball Hall of Fame member, died Tuesday of cancer.

Schalk, who caught 1,760 major league games from 1912 through 1928, died in a hospital where he had been a patient the past several weeks.

Schalk was named to the Hall of Fame in 1955.

He caught for the White Sox from 1912 until 1926 and later managed the club. He finished his big league playing career with the New York Giants as a catcher-coach.

Schalk played for the White Sox in the ill-fated Black Sox scandal 1919 World Series against Cincinnati. Schalk was not implicated in the scandal.

In 1930-31, Schalk also served as coach for the Chicago Cubs and managed Buffalo in the International League in 1932 before retiring from professional baseball.

For 18 seasons, until 1965, Schalk was an assistant baseball coach at Purdue University. Until recently, he served as director of the baseball phase of Mayor Richard Daley's Chicago Youth Foundation.

"I guess I caught more spitlers than any catcher in baseball," Schalk was fond of recalling. "I got these crooked fingers from balls I didn't catch from spitballers like Red Faber, Ed Walsh, Ed Cicotte, Joe Benz and Mel Wolfgang."

He is survived by his wife, Lavinia, a daughter, Mrs. Pauline Brinxon, and three grandchildren.

Brabham Finally Gets Into Action

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Jack Brabham climaxed more than 48 hours of round-the-clock labor Tuesday by almost getting his new car on the Indianapolis Motor Speedway. An early shutdown of the course thwarted him.

Brabham, at 44 the world dean of Grand Prix drivers, had his sleek blue turbocharged Offy machine on the line and ready for its first test runs when track officials discovered oil on the backstretch, dumped there by the only turbine entered in this year's Memorial Day 500-mile race.

It was the latest in a series of delays that have plagued the Australian, who has won the world driving title three times and leads the point chase in the 1970 Formula 1 series.

The car, targeted to arrive in Indianapolis May 11, was delayed by construction problems in the Brabham shops near London. Then a truckers' strike held up shipment from New York for three more days. It missed the first weekend of qualifying and Brabham for a while had feared it wouldn't be ready for the final weekend of time trials beginning Saturday.

Brabham, a three-time world road racing champion but not too successful in three starts in the Memorial Day 500, took the car out for several shakedown laps at slow speed. He said he was satisfied with the initial test.

"It's the first time the car has been on a racing surface and, of course, we didn't know what to expect," he said. "We have to be satisfied that the car has reached this point in development."

The Brabham's appearance in late afternoon highlighted an otherwise routine day of practice, including fuel and tire test runs for drivers either already in the field or hoping to qualify this weekend.

Meantime Ruby's mechanics were carefully going through his supply of engines, trying to determine what caused three of them to fail while he was attempting to qualify for the field last weekend.

"I'm in no hurry," the 43-year-old Texan said. "We want to know what caused them to break. If we don't find out, we might just as well forget the race entirely."

The Phils jumped ahead to stay with a run off Dock Ellis, 2-4, in the first. Deron Johnson singled home John Briggs, who had drawn a two-out walk and gone to third on Don Naylor's single.

Rehabilitation Unit Honors Paraplegic

Tom Jones, a 33-year-old paraplegic who has been confined to a wheelchair for 26 years after being accidentally shot in the back, has been named Illinois' "Rehabilitant of the Half-Century." It was announced recently by Alfred Slicer, director of the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation.

The selection was made in connection with the 50th Anniversary of the signing of the Vocational Rehabilitation Act by President Woodrow Wilson on June 2, 1920.

Jones, who is chief announcer for WCIA-TV in Champaign and a graduate student at the University of Illinois, "is a living example of fine citizenship and rehabilitation as he appears daily before a viewing audience of 400,000 people," Slicer's announcement read.

The bullet from the 22-caliber rifle may have made Jones a paraplegic for life, but his confinement to a wheelchair has never diminished his activities or slowed down his accomplishments. Rehabilitation and early schooling at Illinois Children's hospital in Chicago were followed by graduation in 1955 from Carbondale Community high school, where he ranked in the top 10 percent of his senior class. He received a journalism degree from the University of Illinois in 1959 and is currently completing work on his master's in television.

He joined the staff of WCIA-TV during his sophomore year at the U. of I. and during the 13 years he has been on the staff, he has served as a booth announcer, news, sports and weather reporter, producer, copywriter, feature film planner and host of his own talk show.

He has interviewed many celebrities—Bob Hope, Art Linkletter, Pat O'Brien, Chill Wills, Peter Palmer, Andy Devine, Ernie Banks, Lou Brock, Dizzy Dean, Robert Goulet, Hans Conreid, Margaret O'Brien, Governor Ogilvie when he was Cook county sheriff, and Lt. Governor Paul Simon when he was state senator.

Jones has served on the Champaign Mayor's Committee for upgrading services and facilities for handicapped school children, he has read for blind university students, he gives speeches on behalf of the University's Rehabilitation-Education Center and to area high school youth groups and athletic teams about the young person's role in society, and he has done volunteer work for the Governor's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped. He is currently a member of the Suicide Prevention Team in Champaign county.

The Jacksonville office of the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation is going to participate in ceremonies to be held in Springfield next month in connection with the anniversary of the Vocational Rehabilitation Act.

The local facility, which serves Morgan, Cass, Scott, Jersey and Greene counties, helps over 400 disabled or handicapped persons to find suitable employment.

The Jacksonville, Springfield and Quincy region of the state-wide rehabilitation program is said to provide more services per capita than any other region in the state.

SIX AREA U. OF I. FRESHMEN IN HONORS PROGRAM

Six University of Illinois freshmen from this area have been accepted into the Edmund J. James honors program for superior undergraduate students in September.

They are Joyce A. Miner of Waverly, Dewey H. Coultas of Jacksonville, Kenneth R. Young of Greenfield, Kathie R. Rosentreter of Carrollton, Marsha L. Vaney of Ashland and Rick D. Krohe of Beardstown.

Selection for the James Scholar program is the highest academic honor that is conferred on freshmen entering the University of Illinois. The scholars are chosen for their high school academic record and their seriousness of purpose.

No Real Gripes -- But What Of Automation?

(Fourth of a Series)
By TOM TIEDE
NEWCASTLE, Delaware (NEA) — Forty-eight-year-old Bill Ludlan thinks he may be a victim of industrial automation—but not in the usual sense. It's not threatening his job. It's threatening his rights.

Ludlan is an installer for the Diamond State Telephone Company, an arm of the Bell Telephone System.

Generally speaking, he likes the work. He hasn't even any real gripes about the pay—which is $148 a week take-home. Rather, it's the future which concerns Bill Ludlan—what the work and the pay will be like in years to come.

Here's his point: Like millions of other Americans, Ludlan belongs to a union, United Telephone Workers. But unlike most of the others, he feels his union may now be at the mercy of the very roots it stems from—automated electronics.

In other words, he feels the UTW membership no longer has the full power of traditional collective bargaining. Because the telephone system is so completely automated that normal union recourse (a strike) can't disrupt service fast or severely enough to force management into a conciliating corner.

He explains: "Let's say we go on strike some day for more money. What would happen to everybody's telephone? Nothing. The whole phone system is automated so that constant repair is not absolutely necessary. Telephone calls would just continue to go through. Company officials would just sit back and wait. And us guys out on strike would just get pretty thin before long."

Ludlan believes this situation might occur regardless of how wide a given telephone strike was. That is, even if an entire state like Delaware struck, the affected phone system is so technically and physically structured that non-striking supervisors could continue operation indefinitely.

Thus, says Ludlan, "our rights as union men are pretty thin."

But don't get the man wrong. He's waving no spear, nor mounting any ramparts. Telephone man Ludlan makes this observation about union rights only and entirely in passing.

Teamsters Accept Trucking Contract

WASHINGTON (AP) — Teamsters have accepted by a 7-5 margin what their leader, acting union president Frank E. Fitzsimmons, called the best national trucking contract in history.

New Crackdown On Narcotic Smuggling Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — Foreign visitors and returning American tourists will have a tougher time clearing customs, especially on the East and Gulf coasts, when a new government crackdown on narcotics smuggling begins about June 1.

The Customs Bureau is beginning the new effort as part of its intensified campaign against "hard" drugs—mainly heroin and cocaine.

Details are still in the discussion stage, but Asst. Secretary Eugene T. Rossides confirmed Monday the plan will go into effect with an "increase in enforcement intensity throughout the nation, with emphasis on the Northeastern and Southeastern quadrants."

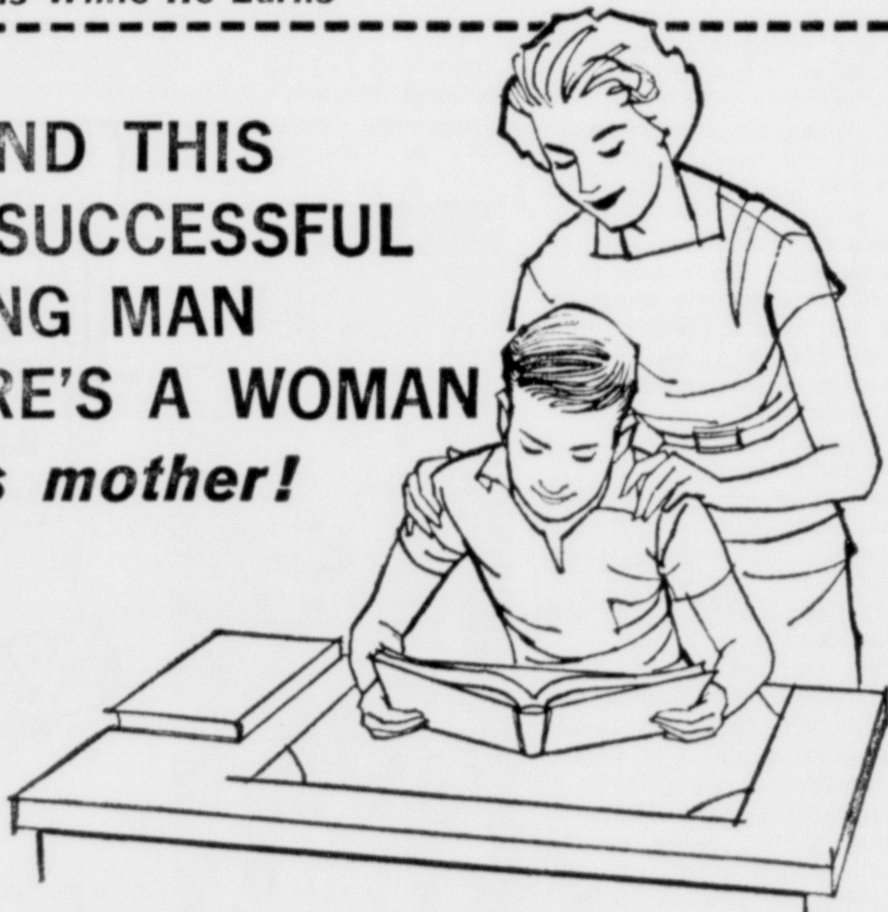

Coverage will extend as far west as New Orleans, he said, and presumably also will affect at least part of the Canadian border, although a Customs spokesman maintained it will be a uniform nationwide increase. Stiffer customs inspections are only one part of the government's effort to curtail narcotics, which President Nixon made an objective of foreign policy last year.

Diplomats are trying to reach agreement with France and Turkey, where the government says 80 per cent of smuggled heroin comes from.

Nixon's staff reports agreement with France, which has its own addiction problem to spur it along, and are optimistic about new controls on poppy growth in Turkey.

PRIVATELY OWNED ISLAND CLAIMED BY INDIANS

CLEARLAKE OAKS, Calif. (AP) — A band of Pomo Indians has moved onto privately owned Rattlesnake Island in Clear Lake, claiming it has belonged to them for 1,000 years.

An Indian spokesman said it was the first time Indians had tried to take over private property. Previously they had claimed title to federal land, including Alcatraz Island in San Francisco Bay and Ft. Lawton, Wash.

Capt. Howard Norton of the Lake County sheriff's department said no effort was planned to remove the Indians.

The Indians have erected a tent city and are working on more permanent buildings for what they have named El-Em Indian Colony. They have renamed the island Nu-Do-N, Indian for "Wooden Island."

Confidence Voiced In U.S. Economy

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — European and Canadian bankers say they are confident the United States will solve its economic problems, even though some Americans seem pessimistic.

"I often think I am far more confident about America's future than most of the people who live here," remarked John Young, chairman of Canada's Prices and Income Commission, during the American Bankers Association International Monetary Conference here Monday.

Allen T. Lambert, chairman of the Toronto Dominion Bank, put it this way:

"Your own people can contribute to a credibility gap which we don't feel. If you persist, then we must have doubts, but I think there is a little too much questioning of the sincerity of the people whom we feel are honestly trying to solve your problems."

Earlier, Dr. Peter B. Kenen, an economist and provost of Columbia University, had told conference participants he believed that the political effects of U.S. intervention in Cambodia would make the Nixon administration's attempt to curb inflation more difficult.

Kenen said he believed widening the war in Indochina would lessen Nixon's "moral capacity" to convince the country of a need to restrain wage and price increases.

A Viennese banker said he felt many Americans underestimated their country's potential for doing good.

Business — Market Wrapup

Business Mirror

By JOHN CUNIFF AP Business Analyst NEW YORK (AP) — There are a lot of Luddites around these days, said the data processing manager of a company whose production depends to a large extent on the healthy operation of its electronic computers.

It seems you can't tell a Luddite from any other worker, and so that makes them doubly difficult to defend against. Sometimes the only way you know they're even on the premises is to note a succession of suspicious computer snafus.

Are Luddites from another planet? Judging from the fear of them expressed by EDP managers you might believe they're like little green men. But they are terrestrial, although their origins are in another continent.

The term is borrowed from the name given to a group of early 19th century English workmen who tried to delay the industrial revolution by smashing up the machines they believed were taking away their jobs.

Now, it is claimed, some workers want to do the same thing to the computer and the information revolution. How? One method is to hold an expensive magnet over the computer tapes, thus erasing the records thereon.

Modern tape reels may contain 100,000 records which one magnet can destroy in seconds. More than 900 reels were so destroyed by protesters angered by Dow Chemical Company's participation in the Vietnam war.

The ease with which such sabotage can be accomplished is making EDP managers increasingly concerned with the security of their computer operations, whose success or failure can mean the same thing for the entire company.

Sabotage, in fact, is only one of their worries. Fire, fraud, student uprisings, improper ventilation, smoke, power failures, earthquakes and, simply, employee accidents, pose constant threats.

At a recent seminar on catastrophe prevention, held by the American Management Association, a Bank of America official described how his computer facilities are surrounded by bullet proof glass.

Guards allow only one person at a time into the foyer. The person seeking entrance finds himself in a small "mantrap," with the door behind and the door ahead closed tight. While thus imprisoned, he is examined by a television camera.

Despite such precautions, some companies are finding that the damage often can be accomplished from within.

By ingeniously rigging a computer, five men stole more than $1 million from two New York banks. In another case, a programmer set up the computer to bypass his account when reporting overdrafts. He then cashed checks freely.

The possibility of power failures in wide areas of the nation this summer could cause damage not only to the machinery of computers but to the records stored in them, despite the growing use of backup power.

Such threats of absolute chaos to a company's operations are causing some EDP managers to be concerned enough to provide duplicate storage facilities in their own homes, where they feel they can personally keep an eye on them.

These measures do not, however, resolve the problem of computer protection in a society that many feel is growing more violent and destructive. The dupes can be rushed into service, true, but some damage already has been done.

Moreover, some EDP managers feel it will be a long, long time before they can relax. As one of them put it at the AMA conference: "The kids playing with drugs today will be your employees tomorrow."

FUNNY BUSINESS

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, which had shown strength in the previous two sessions, tumbled Tuesday in the wake of a statement projecting budget deficits.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials dropped 11.41 points to 691.40, its low for the session and the sharpest loss since May 4 when the blue-chip indicator dropped 19.07 points.

Tuesday's session was the second time in less than a week that the Dow went under the 700 level. The index penetrated that level last Wednesday for the first time in seven years. A 17-point rise Friday sent the average back up.

What triggered a large part of the market's decline Tuesday was a statement by the President that a budget deficit of $1.8 billion was anticipated for the present fiscal year and a $1.3 billion deficit was projected for fiscal 1971.

"The main reason investors reacted negatively," said one analyst, "is that the deficit means interest rates will stay up." High interest rates are viewed as a major market depressant.

Of the 1,564 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange, 1,062 declined, and 262 advanced. New yearly lows were registered by 289 issues and a high by only one.

Volume on the Big Board rose to 9.48 million shares from 8.28 million shares Monday.

The Associated Press 60-stock average fell 3.0 to 243.3. Industrials were off 5.6, rails off 1.4 and utilities, off .6.

Declines were experienced by drugs, building materials, airlines, chemicals, electronics, aircrafts, mail order-retail, and motors.

The most-active issue on the Big Board was Columbia Pictures, off 1 1/4 at 11 on a volume of 422,500 shares. A 375,300-share block—the largest of the session—of the issue traded at 10.

There were 56 blocks of 10,000 or more shares traded on the Big Board compared with 45 Monday.

The American Stock Exchange price exchange index slipped .23 to 20.91. Of the 1,093 issues traded, 641 declined while 155 advanced. Volume declined to 2.41 million shares from 2.55 million shares Monday.

Grain Prices Close Lower

CHICAGO (AP) — Expiration of all May commodity futures options brought a deluge of liquidating orders and prices fell from 3/4 to 2 cents a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade Tuesday.

Trade before the noon deadline for the May options had been, at best, only fair. Commercial involvement had been noted, in particular, in the wheat pit where prices turned soft some 30 minutes after a mixed opening. Thereafter, liquidation gained momentum and at the close, May wheat was down 2 cents. Later, deferred options softened, mainly on reports that the winter wheat crop is in good to excellent condition.

Corn futures held some restrained buying attention for a time, based on overnight inclement weather, but easing of the May option induced scattered selling at the close.

At the close, wheat was 1 1/4 to 2 cents a bushel lower, 1.48; corn was 1/4 lower to 1/4 higher, May 1.29; oats were 3/4 lower to 1/2 higher, May 66 1/2; rye was 3/4 to 1 cent lower, May 1.04; and soybeans were 1/4 to 3/4 lower, May 2.67 1/4.

2 cups chicken broth
1/2 cup red wine vinegar

Cook uncovered over moderate heat until liquid has evaporated—18 to 20 minutes. Serve hot. Makes six servings.

Perry Como Is Latest Pilgrim To Las Vegas

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—"Living is enjoying what you do," said Perry Como, the latest pilgrim to Las Vegas.

In his first night club appearance since he starred at the Copacabana here in 1944, the singer will open a three-week engagement at the International Hotel in Nevada's gambling capital for a reported $100,000 a week.

That's $99,250 more than he made at the Copacabana 26 years ago—but, of course, money isn't what it used to be. And it isn't just the money that is drawing Como back to a night club floor.

"To me life is fulfillment and acceptance," said Perry. "When you have been doing something for 30 or 35 years, it makes you feel good to find you're still accepted and welcomed at 58."

"In some careers, even brick-laying, you get too old."

"I like to work before a large live audience. I think it will be fun in Las Vegas. If not, I can always try the tables. If I gambled as much as I want to, I'd probably be the biggest bum in the world."

The greatest gamble Como ever made, however, was in 1933. He gave up a barbershop in Canonsburg, Pa., that was bringing him in $1 a week to become a singer for Tommy Carbone's band at $28 a week.

Over the years the easy-going singer won recognition as one of the best-liked performers in show business, a top star in radio, television and the recording field. Of the hundreds of records he made, a phenomenal 13 sold more than a million discs, including such hits as "Prisoner of Love," "Till the End of Time," "Sweet Sixteen," and "Ave Maria."

After 15 years of running his own television network variety shows, Perry wearied of the routine and the chore of running a production staff of 250 people. Now he picks his spots.

"I feel we had done just about everything," he explained. "Even when I cut my programs down to eight or 10 a year, I found that to get the kind of guests I wanted I had to make some trades—appear on their shows, too—that I was almost back on a weekly schedule."

"Getting the quality of guests I wanted just became too rough. If you want those people—the best you can get—you can't buy them. You have to do a trade with them."

"But I never did retire. I feel I'm too young to vegetate yet. Ideally, I'd like to do what I have been doing—do a couple of specials a year and a few guest spots and make more records."

Como sold his longtime home at suburban Sands Point and built a new one on the seashore a few miles from Palm Beach. He spends about 10 months a year there with his wife Roselle, fishing, playing golf and entertaining their six grandchildren.

School Principals At Elementary Level Picked From Faculty

Members of the board of education of School District 117 Tuesday evening made administrative appointments for two elementary positions, both from the present faculty.

Harry Emrick, presently Lincoln school principal, was named principal of Eisenhower school for the 1970-71 school year.

Charles Bowen, presently teaching at Jonathan Turner, was named principal of Lincoln school to replace Emrick.

Harry Emrick

Mr. Emrick is a native of Valley City and was educated at Griggsville high school and Western Illinois University. He received his masters degree from University of Wisconsin. He has taught at David Prince, Jonathan Turner and has been principal at Lincoln since 1965.

Charles Bowen

Mr. Bowen has taught social studies and mathematics at Turner since 1959. Prior to that he taught at North Jacksonville school for two years and was principal of the former Latherberry school for two years. He holds bachelor's and master's degrees from Bradley University and has an advanced professional certificate in elementary education and supervision from the University of Colorado.

Emrick will be in charge of getting Eisenhower ready for occupancy in the fall of 1971-72.

Mrs. Betty McCullough voted to "pass" on Emrick and "no" on Bowen's appointment. She later asked that board members be included on the selection committee and interview board for administrative personnel.

Concerned Citizens

Rev. Harold Hendrick, public information chairman for Concerned Citizens for Strong Public Schools, presented a brief resume of activities during the past two or three weeks in connection with a fight to keep public tax funds from being paid to private schools.

Board President J. Ivan Heaton said that he would not appoint a member of the board to officially represent District 117 but indicated that any board member would be free to attend any meetings on his own.

Mac Professor Awarded Grant

Dr. Wolf D. Fuhrig, associate professor of government at MacMurray College, has received a federal grant to study African and Afro-American politics this summer at the University of Wisconsin.

The $1,000 grant from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare is one of several which have been received by Dr. Fuhrig in recent years. Dr. Fuhrig, a graduate of Columbia University, has been a member of the MacMurray faculty since 1967.

proved by the board with Lankton-Ziegle-Terry school architects, to develop preliminary plans for the Red Farm school site. The board voted to approve the additional expense up to $2,000 for advice on location of parking, buildings and other aspects of site development.

Jones-Blythe Construction Co., contractors for the Jonathan Turner improvement received a partial payment of $26,426.70, leaving a balance of $104,042.19 to be paid on the contract.

Delos Craig was hired for the next school year as bus driver and deliveryman. Board action was necessary since Craig reached his 65th birthday. Dr. Clifford Crone said Craig was in good health and capable of continuing his work.

Textbooks for a variety of subjects were approved by the board, upon recommendation of the faculty members who will use the books in the classrooms.

The board approved an easement along the east line of Eisenhower school to Illinois Power Co. It was brought out that electricity is already installed at the site.

Grounds Superintendent Bob Gill said he had not asked city power to connect the Armstrong site with power since he felt "they are having enough trouble at the moment." He said power would be needed soon.

Buy Band Uniforms

The board authorized purchase of high school band uniforms from the Ostwald Company for $12,477.78 for 113 uniforms. Unit cost was listed at $102.60. Ten twirler uniforms at $60.35, two drill captain uniforms at $88.84, and one drum major uniform, $102.80. The uniforms will be ordered to insure delivery by September.

A model of the new uniform was shown to the board several months ago. The Band Parents' Association will pay a part of the cost of the uniforms and the balance will be paid from the capital outlay budget.

Houses For Sale

Negative bids, that is, bids for payment to the school board, will be sought for four houses on Jordan on either side of the vocational building. Grounds Superintendent Bob Gill said he would seek bids for removal of the houses and report back to the board.

Gill also reported that work is starting to progress at both Eisenhower and Armstrong school sites. He said the footings and blocks are above ground at Eisenhower.

Survey Form

Junior and senior high school pupils will complete survey forms in the near future as participants in a study being financed through a federal grant, sponsored by the Crime Prevention Commission serving Morgan, Scott and Cass counties.

The survey is being conducted under the direction of two MacMurray College sociology professors and no individual pupil's response will be identified or connected to him.

The survey form touches on sensitive topics such as drug use, consumption of alcohol and other undetected crimes which may have been committed by teenagers.

The results of the study are expected to provide useful information for educators, law enforcement officials and the Crime Commission.

Safety Lane Nears 50 Percent Of Goal

The 16th Annual Safety Lane neared the halfway point toward the goal of 6,000 inspected vehicles during the second of six official days Tuesday.

With good weather favoring the check lane program, 849 automobiles were inspected Tuesday bringing the total to 2,432. The figure is about 45 per cent of the goal.

During Tuesday's operation 70 cars were rejected, mostly for faulty head lights and signal lights. Of those, 49 returned with the faults corrected to pass and receive the safety circle.

Several drivers went through the ten-point inspection in groups. They were from the Post Office, Sears Department store, Cooney's Ambulance Service, and General Telephone Company.

Assisting with the operation of the lane Tuesday were personnel of the city and state police departments and the sheriff's office; students from Jacksonville and Routt high schools; members of the Lions club; and mechanics furnished by Howard Hembrough Motors and Schmitt Chevrolet.

The Safety Lane, located on Morgan between Church and Kosciusko streets, will be closed from 10:30 a.m. to noon today.

It will reopen at noon and continue normal operation until 6 p.m.

Sunday's "sneak preview" for the lane brought in 563 cars and the official opening day Monday saw 1,020 vehicles checked.

Items checked in the program are steering, brakes, lights, windshield wipers, window glass, exhaust, horn, tires, seat belts and mirrors.

Motorists whose vehicles are approved receive Safety Checked emblems along with Illinois Road maps defensive driving literature and other brochures.

According to co-chairmen John Smith, Gary Fellhauer and Paul Watkins, patrolmen with the city police department, no motorists are issued tickets for defects revealed in the check.

Along with the check teams, a mobile office from the Secretary of State's office is available for providing information concerning the operation of motor vehicles in the state, license applications and renewal blanks.

A bicycle safety lane is scheduled for Saturday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. That program is being sponsored by the Amvets Post 100.

4 Linemen 'Cash-In' Retirement Benefits

Tuesday morning's developments between the city and nine ex-linemen resulted in the fact that no linemen were present for work as of noon from Utilities Line Construction Co. At least there were no linemen ready and available for work in Jacksonville for repair or maintenance.

The second surprise event was four of the nine linemen making application with the city clerk for separation from the Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund and asked that their accrued benefits, or the amount taken from their checks each month, be returned to them in cash.

Mayor Dan F. Lahey said at noon Tuesday that the status of the outside contract was undergoing a "referral period." He described this chain of events as: Utility Line Construction formally asked Local 51 for four employees at 8 a.m. Tuesday...according to the construction contractual agreement, the union has a right to keep their men off the job for at least 24 hours. A four-man crew has been promised by the outside contractor to show up in Jacksonville at 8 a.m. Wednesday "ready for work" according to the mayor.

The four former linemen who asked for their benefits from the IMRF were Harold W. Eyer, 4 Fayette Court, nine years; Dale Williams, 313 N. Church, 1½ years; James Hill, 1231 King St., two years; and Eli Marriage, general delivery, Naples, 16 years.

The application signed by the four linemen stated that the person requesting the benefits was "not now employed" by the municipality. No legal opinion has been received concerning whether the request can be considered as a resignation from the job, which the union contends "has never been terminated," or whether it is simply a step for the employee to receive his benefits in cash.

Participation in IMRF is a requirement of employment, provided the person works at least 600 hours a year.

Mayor Lahey commented after the council meeting Monday night concerning the possibility of what would happen if nobody showed up for work Tuesday morning. "I'll cross that bridge when I get to it," the mayor said.

Nobody appeared Tuesday but the mayor said he felt someone

Report Loss Of Electricity

Three locations were reportedly without electrical power for more than two hours Tuesday afternoon. All are subscribers to the City Light and Power Department.

Outages were said to have occurred at Sandy's restaurant and the Biederman Furniture store on West Morton Ave., and at the high-rise on property owned by the Morgan County Housing Authority.

Other areas affected by the power outage could not be determined. Utilities Superintendent Robert Jameson and Mayor Dan Lahey were reportedly at a meeting and could not be reached for comment Tuesday night.

Cause of the shortage and the source of the repair crew were also undetermined.

would be in Jacksonville Wednesday.

Lahey indicated that the council had given him "another route" to follow in case the outside firm cannot supply linemen.

Lahey would not say what steps have been authorized by the council but indicated that he would perhaps take whatever step it is "later."
